

This image shows a vertical sheet of paper designed for handwriting practice. It features 15 sets of primary-ruled lines. Each set is composed of three horizontal lines: a solid top line, a dashed middle line, and a solid bottom line. At the beginning of each set of lines, there is a small, empty square box. These boxes are aligned with the top solid line of each set. The entire sheet is oriented vertically, with the ruled lines and boxes running from top to bottom.
